The committing of any other act for the purpose of getting rid of the due customs tax in full or in part or in violation of the systems in force regarding banned cargoes shall be treated in the same way as smuggling.

Evidencing the smuggling shall not be prevented by the non-seizure of the cargoes.

Article (78):

Without prejudice to any harsher punishment stipulated by any other law, any person who commits smuggling shall be penalized with incarceration and a fine which shall not be less than ten thousand Egyptian pounds and not exceeding one hundred thousand Egyptian pounds or with one of these penalties.

If the smuggling is for the purpose of trading, the duration of the incarceration shall not be less than three years and not more than five years and the fine shall not be less than twenty-five thousand Egyptian pounds and not exceeding two hundred and fifty Egyptian pounds or one of these penalties.

In all cases the doers and representatives of the body corporates responsible for the actual management that the crime was committed in their favor shall be jointly sentenced against with a compensation equivalent to double the evaded customs tax. If the cargoes, subject of the crime, are banned cargoes, the incarceration period shall not be less than two years and not more than five years and the compensation shall be equivalent to double the value or double the customs tax, whichever is bigger, in this case, the sentence shall include the seizure of the cargoes subject of smuggling. If the smuggled cargo is not seized, a judgement shall be rendered with the same amount as its value.

The Court may order the seizure of the confiscated cargoes if they are not banned as well as the means of transport, tools and materials used in the smuggling except for vessels and airplanes unless they have been prepared or chartered by their operators for that purpose.

The compensation shall be doubled in the previous cases if the perpetrator had previously committed another smuggling crime during the past five years and a final judgement of conviction has been rendered or if reconciliation over the act had been made.

A judgement of compensation and confiscation shall not prevent the rendering of a judgement of a harsher punishment in case the two crimes are connected. The cases of smuggling shall be decided upon before the courts on urgent basis.

In all cases, the crime of customs evasion shall be considered a dishonorable act and breach of trust.

Article (79):

Without prejudice to any harsher punishment stipulated by any other law, the provisions of the second, third, fourth, fifth, sixth and seventh paragraphs of article (78) of this law shall be valid on anyone who has retrieved or commenced in retrieving by way of deceit or forgery of the customs tax or any other tax or sums paid for its account or the guarantees presented for it in part or in full. The compensation shall be equivalent to double the sum subject of the crime.

Article (80):

The Public Prosecution or the competent court as the case may be, based upon the written request of the Minister or the head of the Department by authorization of the Minister, shall be entitled to order to cease the accused of committing the act of smuggling from dealing with the Department until a final judgement is rendered in the lawsuit.

Furthermore, dealing with anyone who has been sentenced with a final judgement in one of the stipulated crimes in this law shall be ceased until the sentenced punishment has been executed or the criminal case has expired by way of reconciliation.

Article (81):

A criminal lawsuit may not be filed in smuggling crimes except based upon the written request of the Minister or his designee.

The Minister or his designee may reconcile in crimes of smuggling even after the rendering of a final judgement by sixty days against payment of the compensation sum in full.

The seized cargoes shall be returned after payment of the customs tax and all other due taxes and fees on them where these cargoes are not banned; banned cargoes shall be re-exported by the concerned party (consignee) or destroyed on his expense pursuant to what is decided by the competent supervisory Department. Also, the means of transport, tools and materials used in the smuggling shall be returned.

The reconciliation shall result in the extinction of the criminal lawsuit and all consequential effects, as the case may be, and the Public Prosecution shall order the stay of execution of the criminal punishment if the reconciliation was carried out during its execution.

Article (82):

The proceeds of the sentenced or collected fines and compensations pursuant to the provisions of this law shall devolve to the Public Treasury. The cargoes subject of the crime, the means of transport, tools and materials used in the smuggling shall be guarantee for the fulfillment of the fines and compensations in case the crime was conducted by their owner or his representative.

The inbound cargoes in the previous paragraph may be released after payment of the value of the customs tax and all other taxes and fees. The due fines and compensations are paid as a security if not seized or required as evidence in a crime.

A percentage of the abovementioned proceeds in the first paragraph of this article shall be allocated by virtue of a Ministerial decree which shall not exceed (10%) of these proceeds to be distributed on the informants whoever caught the crime of customs smuggling or whoever assisted them in their discovery, seizure or in completion of the associated procedures.
